

GXT – SENSOR description

Graphene-XT is developing a graphene-based biosensor able to detect alterations in biological conditions. When a stream interacts with the sensor, the graphene changes its conductivity by interacting with the analyze and gives a measurable signal.

